President Arlo Ayres Brown Inaugurated

EZRA SQUIER TIPPLE

ARLO AYRES BROWN

The inauguration of Dr. Arlo Ayres Brown as president of Drew University was observed October 17, in the presence of one of the most representative gatherings in the long history of that institution. For sixty-two years Drew was known as Drew Theological Seminary. Located in beautiful "Drew Forest" at Madison, N. J., but a little distance from New York, the institution in teachers and in pupils has won a renown that belted the globe.

In addition to the formal inauguration of President Brown at 2:30 p. m., the program of the day included the dedication of the new $500,000 Brothers College building, the gift of Leonard D. and Arthur J. Baldwin of East Orange, the presentation of portraits of former President Ezra Squier Tipple, Professor Robert W. Rogers, and the late Professor Frederick Watson Hannan, and the presentation of four Tiffany windows in the Samuel W. Bowne Refectory, the gift of Mrs. Samuel W. Bowne of New York City.

We await a report of the great day before speaking of it.
